Our Musicians! Widdershins:

Annie Grieshop: Annie has been playing piano for dances for thirty-five years, starting with the Onion Creek Cloggers band. She played for our first few balls, starting in 1992. She has played for several Burns' Balls, various Scottish dance classes, and at the Central Iowa Traditional Dance and Music Festival. She was district Accompanist and piano tech for the Marshalltown School District and played in the pit for school and Community Theater productions. These days, she works for GitHub, but you can often find her at her daughter's farm, hanging out with her grandchildren (and their parents).

Gary Lieberman: Gary has been playing for dancing since 1979 when he moved to Central Iowa. He plays clarinet, flute, alto flute, soprano sax, alto sax, guitar and several other instruments. He has played for dancing on at least three continents including Australia, England and many places around the US. He also plays English Country dance music with Cecil's Harp, jazz with the Indigo Monks and clarinet in the Ames Municipal Band. By day he is a retired mathematics professor (Iowa State, Emeritus) and a full-time grandpa!

Linda Lieberman: Linda has been playing for dancing for more than thirty years with Widdershins, Onion Creek, Cecil's Harp and others. She plays whistles, recorders, clarinet, percussion and violin. She has played for dancing around the US and in Scotland, England, Australia. She is a Scottish country dance teacher and English dance leader. She plays clarinet in the Ames Municipal Band. She is a retired high school mathematics teacher, a potter, artist and supporter of the arts and a full-time grandma to five grands who all love and are active in the arts.

Peggy Garrigues: Peggy Garrigues was born in Helensburgh, Scotland, where her parents began Scottish Country Dancing. Peggy began dancing with them while growing up in the Chicago area and has since danced and played Scottish fiddle in Ann Arbor, Bay City, and Troy, Michigan; Washington, DC; New Hampshire; and in Iowa when she can. She has played in a number of Scottish fiddle competitions, and currently works as minister at the Solon United Methodist Church, just outside Iowa City.
